By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

MANILA, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The Japanese Imperial government today announced that landing of Allied occupation troops on the Japanese mainland will begin next Sunday.

The communiqué, which urged the Japanese people "to remain calm and continue their respective business as usual," obviously was issued at the direction of General Douglas MacArthur, who earnestly desires to accomplish the landings without bloodshed.

Paratroopers Lead
Just before the joint communiqué was released the Japanese board of information announced that paratroopers would spearhead the occupation by landing August 26 at Atsuki, southwest of Tokyo.

The initial landings will be followed two days later, the board of information said, when mightily warships of the U. S. Third Fleet and troop-carrying transports will move into the port of Yokosuka on Tokyo Bay just south of the Japanese capital.

Jap Domei news agency dispatches reported the announcement of the joint communiqué and the board of information statement which emphasized that the Allied landings "will be carried out peacefully and in friendly manner in accordance with arrangements made with the Allied powers and under complete arrangement made by Japan."

The board of information said that Japanese army, navy and air forces were being moved immediately from the Atsuki and Yokosuka (Continued on Page Fifteen)

Pearl Harbor Facts May Be Known Soon

President Confers With Of-

Of Story Of Sneak
Attack

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—President Truman may authorize disclosure in the near future of the full story behind the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

This loomed as a distinct possibility today following a hurriedly-called White House conference between the chief executive, former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts who conducted an investigation of the attack, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, and highest Army and Navy department officials.

What To Do?

It was learned that the meeting had as its purpose a discussion of what should be done about making public all facts surrounding the attack now that the war is over.

Jap Photographer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Tokyo radio today quoted a Japanese cameraman as saying that Nagasaki, target of the second atomic bomb, is "now a dead city, all areas being literally razed to the ground."

The Jap broadcast, as heard by the FCC, said that photographs showed that "the center of the once thriving city has been turned into a vast devastation with nothing left except rubble as far as the eye could see."

Pictures of the stricken area on western Kyushu which was hit by an atomic bomb August 9, were played on the front page of today's Mainichi newspaper, according to the Jap broadcast.

10 Mile Damage

One picture, the Tokyo radio said, revealed "the tragic scene 10 miles away from the center of the atomic attack where farm houses are either crushed down or the roofs torn asunder."

Unable To Solve Youngsters Death

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Allegheny county detectives were at a loss today to explain the death of Donald John Landfeld, aged six, who died of a stab wound in the abdomen Sunday.

Detective Samuel Graham questioned five of the youngster's playmates. All of them told him that Donald was injured when he fell on a broken bottle. None of the boys, who played a "Jap-war" game with young Landfeld, actually witnessed the fall, however, and police were unable to detect bloodstains on the bottle.

The boy was the son of Ralph Landfeld, a war worker, who was mistakenly slain by Steve township Police Chief William C. Duert June, 1944.

Air-Navy Attacks Ruined Jap Navy

Admiral Sherman Says Japs
Have Only Battleship

By GEORGE McWILLIAMS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

GUAM, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Rear Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, fresh from the Manila surrender conference, today attributed Japan's capitulation to combined American air and naval attacks which required the empire's fleet to impotency and neutralized Jap production.

The admiral who is Nimitz' deputy chief of staff said that information concerning the Jap fighting forces and internal conditions—shown by reconnaissance photographs—was confirmed in detail by the Japanese envoys with whom he talked at Manila.

He said that the Japs entered the war with 12 battleships. Now they have one left—the Nagato—which Sherman said is lying heavily damaged and unmanned at Yokosuka naval base on Tokyo bay.

Of the 16 carriers which the Japs operated during the war, only four are left. All the carriers are heavily damaged and the crews have been withdrawn.

Augmenting his own information with that supplied by the Jap envoys on their remaining warships, Sherman said the imperial fleet now has left only two heavy cruisers, two light cruisers and 26 destroyers.

All five escort carriers of the Jap fleet were lost. The Japs originally had 19 heavy cruisers; 24 light cruisers and 165 destroyers.

Sherman traced the final phase of the war and pointed out that early in July Adm. William F. Halsey's fleet began a series of operations which had as its main objective the destruction of remaining Jap warships.

At the same time, he said, American land-based air forces accelerated their attacks against Japan.

Jap War Lords Not Satisfied With Surrender

Japan Admittedly On Brink
Of Internal Upheaval As Result Of Surrender

NEW PREMIER IS NOT WELL LIKED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Broad hints that Premier Prince Hiroshi Kuni may not be able to "control the military" were voiced today by a defeated Jap official, admittedly on the brink of internal upheaval.

A steady stream of propaganda warned that surrender is "resented by the military" and expressed fears that some "hot-headed" officers may be unable to "bear" Allied occupation of Nippon.

Surrender Resented

Underlining the danger of "unfortunate incidents" which "may occur" when Supreme Commander Douglas MacArthur and his Allied occupation force takes over the Japanese homeland, radio Tokyo declared:

"In spite of Japan's defeat, a considerable portion of the Japanese military remains intact, without (Continued on Page Two)

Veteran Is Named To Medical Post

Lt. Col. Weest, 28th Division
Surgeon Named As Secretary Of Health

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Lt. Col. Harry W. Weest of Altoona, surgeon of the 28th division, had an appointment today from Gov. Edgar Martin as Pennsylvania's sixth secretary of health.

Colonel Weest succeeds Dr. Alexander H. Stewart of Indiana, who died July 31. The 51-year-old army surgeon, a graduate of Jefferson Medical college at Philadelphia in 1919, entered the service February 17, 1941, when Pennsylvania's National Guard was federalized.

Colonel Weest is well qualified to head the Pennsylvania department of health, Governor Martin said. "His experience as division surgeon of the 28th division during the hard winter fighting in Europe, his knowledge of sanitation and his administrative ability will enable him to do an outstanding job as secretary of health."

A spokesman for the governor said Weest was at an army separation center and his appointment would be effective as soon as he is separated from the military service.

There was no indication as to when he would assume the duties of the $10,000 a year post.

Weest began practicing medicine in Altoona in 1920 and was on the staff of the Altoona and Mercy hospitals.

Mr. Hockman, who is wreckmaster for the B and O railroad, was standing on the huge locomotive crane supervising the work of raising the wreckage engine, when the crane slipped off and whirled around, striking him alongside the jaw. He was knocked off the crane and hurled about ten feet. He suffered a fracture of the jaw, and lacerations of the head, back, and legs.

According to FBI agents who arrested him yesterday, Collins said that he not only preferred the bright red collar tabs of the Brigadier's uniform but also liked to be known as Sir Carol Van Collen, K. C. B. V. C. D. F. C.

JAP RESISTANCE DECLARED AT END

By NATALIA RENE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—(INS)—All Manchuria was dominated by Red forces today after they occupied the key cities of Harbin, Mukden and Changchun (Hankin).

A communiqué issued on the 11th day after Russia's entry into the Jap war indicated that organized Japanese resistance was at an end, with capitulating enemy units being in the hands of Japs taken to the 100,000 mark. Some 30,000 Japs had been taken since Aug. 15, and many more were taken yesterday.

The communiqué made no mention of Japanese resistance to the three powerful Soviet armies boring deeper into the puppet state, which has an area of more than 300,000 square miles and some 38,000,000 population. Instead, the official announcement declared:

"Registration of the capitulating units and formations of the Jap Kwangtung army continues. Nine towns occupied."

In all nine important towns were listed as occupied in the Russian communiqué.

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—All the United Nations that took part in the war against Japan and have interests in the far east were invited today to participate in formal surrender arrangements and occupation of Nippon.

The state department revealed that invitations have been sent to France, Australia, Canada, the Netherlands and New Zealand, governments to send military representatives to be present at the surrender ceremonies.

These governments were instructed to send immediately the name of their representative to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and China were not so instructed because they are already represented by MacArthur in his role of supreme allied commander for the occupation.

Provisions Of Bill

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, administrator of Veterans Affairs, today declined to approve or oppose the Wagner Bill.

Gen. Bradley was asked before a Senate banking and currency subcommittee as the first witness in a drive for enactment of the bill.

"I believe that I am safe in saying that the greatest concern of returning veterans is that of obtaining useful employment either self employment or others and reestablishing themselves in civil life," Gen. Bradley told the committee.

The above statement was made without any desire to indicate personal approval or disapproval of the bill under consideration.

Not Qualified

"Even if it were appropriate to do so, I do not feel qualified to state whether the bill would accomplish the purpose for which it is intended or whether from the political or economic aspects it would be desirable. Nor am I advised as to whether it accords with the financial program of the president."

I merely attempt to state some of the very probable effects on veterans of a condition which would avoid depression and insure availability of work for everyone.

Gen. Bradley, however, told Sen-

Doolittle Men Found In China

Paratroopers Rescue Four

Tokyo Bombing Raid

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(INS)—An American broadcasting company correspondent reported today that volunteer parachute rescue teams which landed near Peiping had rescued four American fliers who participated in the "Doolittle" Mitchell bomber raid on Tokyo April 18, 1942.

The fliers who accompanied the then Maj. James H. Doolittle on the famous raid were said to have been held in prison on charges of murder.

According to the correspondent, the quartet now is quartered in the Grand Hotel at Peiping, receiving the best possible care.

One man is reported suffering from such a severe attack of beriberi that he is unable to travel by air.

Army officials withheld the names of the airmen until their families are officially notified.

NO INVASION PLANNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The Jap Domei agency reported today that leaders assuring residents of the Mura peninsula that their region will not become a "scene of battle" have been distributed.

The Mura peninsula, including the port of Yokosuka, is the site which Domei previously reported has been chosen for the landing of the second group of allied occupation forces.

Gen. L.H. Campbell Conversion Head

Chief Of Army Ordnance To Direct Reconversion Of Nation's War Plants

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (INS)—High government officials and business leaders were assured that Gen. L. H. Campbell, Jr., will direct reconversion of the nation's war plants to peacetime production.

Campbell, who has been chief of army ordnance, will supervise the shift of the vast American war potential back into its peacetime groove under orders from War Mobilizer Service.

Snyder will retain full and complete authority over all war production. His choice of Campbell, who is known as "the business man's soldier," was approved enthusiastically by business and government generally.

Official circles in Washington saw in the appointment an end to Gen. Brehon B. Somervell's control over army supply orders, an authority exercised by Somervell as chief of army service forces.

These sources also said that the move would relieve the lack of a central army military dictatorship. They said it would end the conflict between the office of war mobilization and industry on the one hand and Somervell's army group on the other over military supplies.

any experience of actual defeat on the field of battle, and with their morale unimpaired."

More bluntly, the Nippon Times said "control of the military" is an even greater cabinet problem than alleviation of internal "unrest, fear and despair."

Pertains To Military

The FCC heard radio Tokyo quoting at length from editorial in the Japanese press asserting that "unconditional surrender" as declared in the Potsdam declaration "applies only to Japanese armed forces."

This, obviously, was a wishful thinking, an indulgence of the hope that the Allied occupation will not preempt Japanese control of civil administration.

International News Service Correspondent Frank Robertson in a dispatch from Manila declared that "General MacArthur's occupation forces will move into Japan equipped to control the entire civilian life."

Editorial Comment

Despite this admittedly explosive internal situation, Japanese analysts came up with interpretations of the Potsdam declaration aimed at retaining the empire's hold on civil affairs.

Typical of newspaper editorials on this score was the analysis published by Yomiuri Hochi, which said:

"According to the literal construction of the surrender declaration, the terms 'do not seem to imply total occupation of a large territory, but will only apply to military or politically important points.'"

"Domestically, we must take special note of the fact that the term 'unconditional surrender' appears in the original text only in one clause which states 'the unconditional surrender of the Japanese armed forces,' and that it is used only in relation to the armed forces."

Bolting Military

From a nation defeated in battle and defeated at home, meanwhile, came indications that the Japanese people are beginning to bolt the yoke of the military.

"To restore calm and order among officers and men, full and wholehearted cooperation on the part of the general public will be necessary whatever have been the mistakes they have made."

The land in the Louisiana Purchase cost the United States about two cents an acre.

JAPS AGAIN PROTEST
PARACHUTE RESCUES

The International Red Cross and Swiss authorities said that rescue parties were "unnecessary."

The Jap government told MacArthur that it will be "impossible" to guarantee the safety of such rescue parties.

The Jap message was numbered 1 and was transmitted over the official Tokyo station JNP. Text of the message:

In connection with the surrender of the Allied prisoners of war and civilian persons under Japanese control, we have agreed to representatives of the Tokyo legation of Switzerland representing the interests of the United States and other Allied nations and the delegation of the international committee of the Red Cross and decided to accept the joint official and cooperative work of the Swiss authorities and Red Cross representatives.

Providing For Prisoners

Our consideration for the purpose of our order was with the cooperation of the Swiss and Red Cross officials, the necessary and proper measures are being adequately provided for.

"Therefore it seems unnecessary for the United States to send special personnel to get into contact with Japanese agents, in those who have already been to some camps we are giving ample protection."

However, it will be a matter of course to be impossible in all similar cases in the future. We hope that such a manner of contact is discontinued."

by destruction of its fleet and the intensity of attacks by air," Sherman said. "What once had been a major military power was brought to its knees without a defeat of its army—a situation unparalleled in history."

Sherman said he thought the Japs finally offered to surrender because they generally realized that conditions were so bad nothing could be done to improve them.

The admiral said he learned in talking with a Jap naval representative at Manila that there was little food at present in the empire, an extreme gasoline shortage and that the transportation system was in bad shape.

Nylons, Girls

WPB didn't mention nylon directly. It merely lifted controls over some 125 chemicals with lawbreaking names. In the list were several basic chemicals from which nylon is made—phenol, adipic acid, coal tar and benzene.

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug, in announcing the revocation order, warned the consumers durable goods industry of its pledge to achieve high level production and turn out the same proportion of low-cost merchandise as I did prior to the war.

"We are prepared to reimpose our orders if this does not prove to be the case," he said.

in part—by a growing insistence on the part of congressional leaders that some action be taken.

Sen. Walsh (D-Mass.), chairman of the Senate Naval committee, last week requested that the Navy department submit the results of its secret investigation to his committee.

Rep. May (D-Ks.), chairman of the House Military committee, has announced that his group will conduct a study of what happened at Pearl Harbor beginning Aug. 27.

Roberts, in that portion of his report which was made public, charged Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, the officers in command when Pearl Harbor was attacked, with "dereliction of duty."

Suspended—Retired

Both officers were suspended immediately following the attack, but were placed on the retired list after the Roberts report was made public.

This move, it was explained, was taken to prepare against the possibility that the officers might be killed in battle with no chance for or against the two top commanders in official government files.

As a result of this investigation, both the Army and Navy issued simultaneous statements in December, 1944, stating that no evidence had been uncovered which warranted further punishment of the Pearl Harbor commanders.

But Kimmel and Short have been dissatisfied with this dismissal of their case. They have both insisted on some given congressional track in the investigation that they would be vindicated.

lically all of our industries so that we are in excellent condition in this respect.

Peace Time Production

"As soon as releases have been secured from the various government agencies, materials are available and the machinery is set, you can expect the greatest part of industry in New Castle to start its peacetime production. As for the war industries, specifically those with sizeable war contracts, it can be said that all of them will be in operation soon."

Mr. Jewett then went into the commercial side of the picture. He said this could be expected within the near future, but he added there were some developments that were necessary and would be started. He referred particularly to the traffic situation, to improved facilities such as sewers and other municipal responsibilities.

Mr. Jewett's presentation of the important subject of post-war development was one that should have been heard by many times the crowd. It was a well thought out presentation, it was most timely and was filled with sufficient post-war promise to give those present a feeling of optimism for the future.

Elect Officers

Officers for the coming year were elected Monday night. President J. Fred Clarke was re-elected as was Vice President Edward J. Two. Louis Ledes was named secretary. Samuel A. Mooney and Albert W. Baiman, Jr., state directors and John B. Loudon, Julius Gardosky, Joseph Bowman, Joseph Frenzel and Edwin J. Williams as directors.

A special guest present was Claire in Germany with the second division. He spoke upon his experiences in combat and his reactions to the life of a soldier as compared to that of a civilian.

RESTRICTIONS

We see by the papers that they are lifting restrictions on a great many articles used by the American people.

We are very glad to say that we have been able to furnish our customers with nearly everything in our line, through these war times, and at the present time we have a great line of funeral furnishings, some of them at pre-war prices, and in a very short time, will have everything that anyone can ask for, at the lowest price possible.

According to reports we don't expect it to be long until we will be back on good old Standard Time.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

General DeGaulle On Good Will Trip

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The White House this week will receive a distinguished guest whose visit can mean much for harmony between Europe and the United States. General Charles De Gaulle will spend a week or more in Washington, talking with officials from President Truman on down.

It is good that he is coming. Too many foolish misconceptions have got in the way of the friendship that once was a strong current between the two countries. No mission of major importance brings De Gaulle to Washington this time. He comes, rather, as a good will visitor, making up in part, at least, for the unhappy circumstances that kept De Gaulle and President Roosevelt from meeting in Europe last winter.

Both sides have committed sins of omission and commission. We have an army in France and that is always a strain, even with the best intentions from both parties.

In spite of the deprivations of the Germans, France has made an important contribution to the war effort and one that has received too little acknowledgment. In reverse lend-lease, the French have furnished goods and services worth about a half billion dollars, which compares with something over a billion dollars in lend-lease aid in supplies and in the re-arming of French troops.

The help given by the French must be measured against the shattered state of French industry and French transportation after the Germans were driven out. On several occasions, the French came through with equipment desperately needed at critical moments of the war.

That was true of the 700 plywood storm boats built during a few weeks early in 1945. French manufacturers were shown a photograph of the kind of boat desired, and from that photo they created designs and rushed the boats to completion. These are the boats that were used by Americans to cross the Rhine. In the reverse lend-lease ledger they are put down at 23,000,000 francs, but their value at the time was far greater than that.

Likewise, when winter supplies for our army were stalled partly because of a miscalculation as to the ending of the war, the French came through with a rush order for 131,125 camouflaged snow capes. These capes saved the lives of American fighting through Europe's bitter winter.

On the other hand, the French have been far too ready to disregard or to minimize help furnished by this country. They have been unhappy because we have not sent money, failing to realize the material claims of a global war. The easy way out was to put the blame for all troubles on us. That was a symptom of the French inferiority complex growing out of the defeat and demand of 1940 and after.

Enough coal and food are going to France from this country. Great Britain and Canada so that next winter should not be too bad. If shipments are kept up to present schedules, Paris and the other cities will get through. In no small part this is due to the long and patient efforts of Jean Monnet, chief of the French supply council in North America.

Again, we have been blamed by France when we were blameless. It is a little known fact that this country has urged admittance of France to Big Three conferences. The opposition has come from Soviet Russia. Yet the blame tends to fall on the U. S.

While the immediate question of supply is not too urgent, De Gaulle will have plenty of problems to take up with officials here. Above all is the need to get French industry started again, and that may take credits from this country.

The French are holding elections this fall. The probability—almost the certainty—is that they will go to the left. For the left of General De Gaulle himself. Yet the prospect is that he will remain as premier; a unifying figure above the battle of partisan politics.

Certainly he will remain not only for France, but for Europe as a symbol of liberation from the powers of darkness. It is in that role he comes to our shores, and we must make him welcome.

SECURITY GUARANTEED
An Indian peddled some cash and was advised to go to the bank and ask for a loan. And the banker asked:

"How much do you need?"
"We want two hundred dollars."
"For how long?"

"Maybe two weeks... maybe two months."
"What security have you?"
"We got two hundred horses."

This was sufficient security and the loan was made. About three weeks later the Indian returned to the bank with three thousand dollars in cash paid off the note and started to leave with the balance when the banker asked: "Why not let us take care of that money for you?"

The Indian's mind flew back to the day when he wanted two hundred dollars and looking the banker straight in the eye he solemnly asked: "How many horses YOU got?"

To Nationalize Coal and Steel

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The way in which the Socialist program is to be launched by the new Labor Government in Britain is almost as interesting over here as over there. For it is pretty generally agreed that its success or failure will have a very considerable influence upon the direction of American politics for years to come.

MANY large promises have been made. The coal and steel industries are to be nationalized. The transportation systems are to be owned and operated by the Government. The Bank of England is to be taken over. A lot of other "reforms" are planned. If these can be inaugurated efficiently it is altogether likely that we will turn left too and follow along. Certainly, enhanced power will be given those who wish to take us in that direction. But if in practice these plans fall short of the theory, and the result is confusion and popular discontent as well it may be, then the Socialists will be greatly discouraged and the turn here will as in Britain will be strongly toward the right.

So effective was Mr. Davies as a one-man embassy that Mr. Truman decided he should represent the administration in London.

Mr. Davies' mission about accepting the post has resulted from a lingering chagrin at his earlier disappointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies would do a skillful and gracious job at the Court of St. James. Mrs. Davies is beautiful and clever and has great wealth. Mr. Davies has already proved his ability as a diplomat. The appointment would be a popular one.

Criticism Peace News

Much of the confusion and misapprehension in the delay in the surrender of Japan might have been spared the United States and the Allies generally if one member had been made of Japan's first role in all negotiations were completed.

It was not necessary to tell us people anything until it could be said definitely that the war was over.

Survey there had been still less support over matters of far less importance. Remember, Japan it was not permitted to withdraw the presence of a ship that was in a harbor visible to thousands of people. There have been hundreds of other restrictions. The ships, the radio and the people stood all these without too much of a murmur.

The talks between Japan and the United States have been going on for some time.

UNDER these conditions, it is agreed, there is but one place from which the Labor Government will get the vast sums needed to take over coal and iron mines, railroads, banks, etc., and that is from the United States. There just is not any other source anywhere. If we do not provide the money they cannot get it. Now that is not exactly the best financial health ourselves. But, conceding that we are in position to make great loans to the British Government, it would be a mistake to think that might result from an attempt to force the Labor Government to do this and in so doing we should not ignore the state of "nationalism" which is something our people do not hold dear and are not kind of thing for which we should use the taxpayers' money, even if we had the money. No, we should have a loan be approved of the people.

THUS, it is sought to prove that the program is impossible because we cannot afford to lend the money. But this contention is entirely refuted by the labor movement. It is true, they say, the program will cost a great sum but it will not be necessary to borrow it from the United States or anyone else. It can be done without an outside dollar, and without raising taxes. And those who think the labor leaders have not thought the financial phase of their program through ought think them fools indeed—much they are not. There are, after all, several ways by which the reforms can be swung, but the one that has the most appeal is the "bond plan."

ONCE it is stated the Government has agreed with the owners of the mines or roads or banks upon price, the Government can pay these owners in bonds bearing a low interest rate and maturing, say, in 50 years. This it is urged, will be entirely fair to the owners. It will provide them with a steady income for life. For them it will be in effect an annuity. It will not materially increase the national debt for the simple reason that before the bonds mature all of them will have been recovered by the Government through the death and inheritance taxes. Nor will the tax burden be increased by the issue of the new bonds, as this will more than be offset by the Government's operational profits on its newly acquired mines, roads, etc.

THIS is just an outline of the "bond plan." Perhaps there is to it one or two other vital facts that (Continued on Page Five)

Customer, Again, Is Always Right

"Prima Donna" Sales
Girl Is Reconverted By Department Store
Courtesy Course

By JEANETTE SMITS

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Patient and long-suffering American shoppers are just awakening to the fact that, with peace, a miracle is taking place in the nation's stores, large and small.

Once more, as in the dimly remembered days before Pearl Harbor, the customer is always right.

Overworked Clerks Smile
The transition, of course, is gradual, but already many of the overworked, understaffed and under-supplied clerks are beginning to smile graciously again (maybe that prolonged V-J holiday had something to do with it).

What's more, a survey of leading department stores in New York and other large cities today indicated that executives already are beginning to study improvements in behind-the-counter service.

The day of the "prima donna" sales girl, it was agreed, is definitely over.

One of the first steps in the re-conversion policy of department stores will be courtesy courses for employees. Officials of Saks-Fifth Avenue, one of New York's prominent Fifth Avenue stores, announced that a courtesy plan has been mapped out and will be broadcast to the sales staff by way of the public address system.

Impact Keenly Felt
The immediate impact of the new era for shoppers is being felt perhaps more keenly in the small neighborhood and street corner shops.

A customer was amazed to have his payment for a package of cigarettes in a corner store after greeted with a cheery smile and "I thank you very much. Even harassed drug store clerks greeted their familiar 'we haven't got it' with the word 'Sorry'.

The pay-off came when a mid-town New York street was observed taking down a sign which read "Please be kind to our clerks—they are harder to get than customers."

He replaced it by a new sign: "The customer is always right."

Battered Body Of Philadelphia Girl Is Found In Well

HADDON HEIGHTS, N. J., Aug. 21.—(INS)—Police today identified the battered body of a young woman found in a 20-foot well near the Black Horse Pike Sunday as that of Miss Margaret McDade, 23, of Philadelphia.

Chief Camden County Detective Lawrence Dorian said Miss McDade, a waitress, went to a victory celebration last Tuesday and was last seen by her friends blowing a horn in front of a firehouse near Haddon Heights.

He added that the man who had killed the girl had assaulted her before he threw her still alive into the well. She died of suffocation.

First Sailors Back In Civvies, Under Navy Point System

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The first 105 sailors to be released from the Navy under the point system were in civilian clothes today after passing through the naval personnel separation center set up in a Long Beach hotel.

The first man out was Chief Signman Thomas J. McDonald, 24, of Minneapolis, who won his discharge yesterday with a total of 33½ points, topping the necessary 44 points by a good margin.

The separation center at Long Beach expects to handle 2,000 to 2,500 men a day from the Third Naval district.

This next paragraph was not inspired by Secretary Anderson—for which let us all be very grateful. But I did hear one person of authority say:

"I shouldn't be at all surprised when Japan surrenders, to find that we will have to feed the Japanese people. Poor creatures! The war was not really of their making. It is our responsibility, perhaps, to look after them as we mean to look after the Germans."

"Re-deployment" is a word grown out of this war. It is applied in this particular moment to the movement about of troops and war supplies.

It seems to me that the word might be applied also to the results we have achieved in our fight to save humanity. We have succeeded principally in "re-deploying" misery and hate and hunger and fear.

Anderson vs Bowles

There's a chance that meat rationing may be lifted soon. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, as handsome and alert a personality as the Truman cabinet boasts, betrays in giving us rationless meat, say about the middle of next week.

But Price Administrator Bowles wants to stick to ration points until around Christmas time. When Mr. Anderson and Mr. Bowles have talked the prospects over thoroughly, we may find a compromise that will lift the ban midway between now and New Year's.

Local Sailor Writes Tribute To Pyle For Memorial On Texas

When the memorial service for correspondent Ernie Pyle was held aboard the battleship USS Texas, off the coast of Ie Shima, the G. I. tribute to the beloved reporter was written by Robert L. McQuiston, S. I. C. of New Castle.

Seaman McQuiston is now on his way to the United States, aboard a Navy hospital ship, after serving with the Texas during 50 consecutive days of the Okinawa campaign. Throughout the bombardment, few men on the ship slept more than four hours out of 24 before the amphibious landings and for 43 days, they helped ground troops thru one enemy line with their big guns.

The 31-year-old Texas, which took part in the invasions of North Africa, Normandy, Southern France, and Iwo Jima, was selected to cover landings on Ie Shima which lies just off Okinawa. It was here that Ernie Pyle met his death.

Seaman McQuiston's wife and daughter live on Euclid avenue.

WELCOME

Sure, We're Old-Fashioned... In ONE Respect!

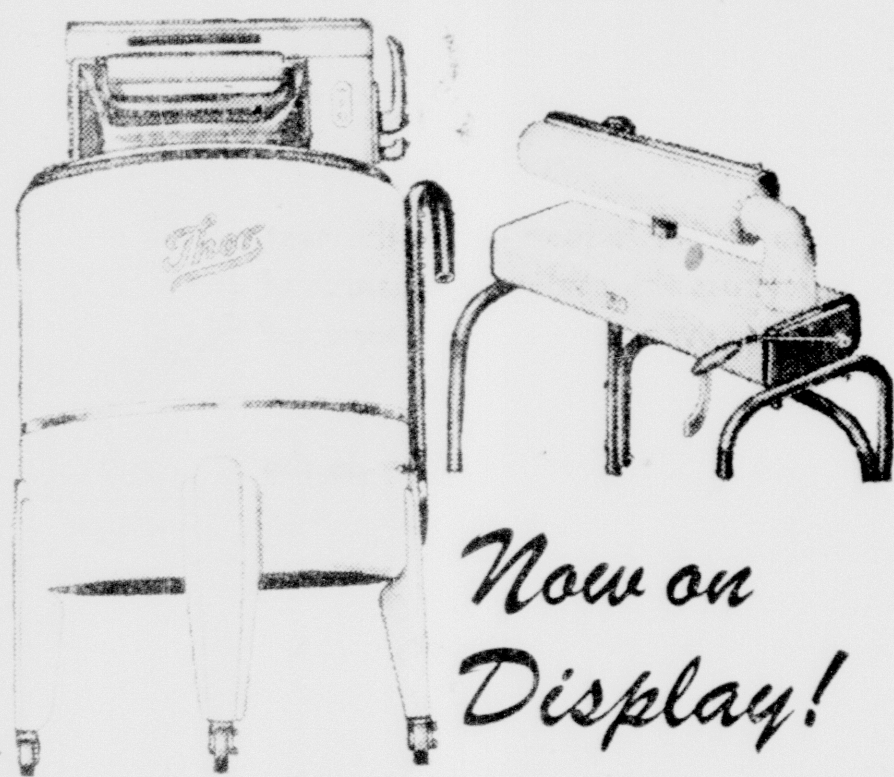

When you see a Baltimore & Ohio streamliner streaking down the tracks... or watch one of B&O's up-to-the-minute, million-pound, steam Mallet locomotives thundering along with urgent freight... we hope you say, "There's the latest evidence of modern railroading"... but, we want you to remember, too, that we're still a little old-fashioned about one thing—the thing called courtesy!

In the hustle and bustle of handling millions of today's passengers and thousands of trainloads of war-time freight, we've tried to keep in mind something for which the B&O is so well known... plain, old-time friendliness.

As always, B&O's 70,000 men and women, who help link your community with the nation, strive to bring you truly progressive railroad service—speed, safety, convenience, comfort and a full measure of real, warm courtesy.

Problems Loom On Occupation

Japanese Occupation Offers
More Difficulties Than That Of Germany

By LARRY G. NEWMAN
U.S.S. Foreign Writer

The occupation of Japan is going to be a far more difficult job than the occupation of Germany.

The problems are more complex, the attitude of the people much different, making it almost certain that we will need more occupation troops in Japan than we will eventually maintain in the defeated Reich.

German Occupation

When American forces took up their military government duties in Germany, they merely shifted from zones which they had conquered a day, week or month before.

They occupied a Germany which had been thoroughly whipped both the army and the people. The Germans had witnessed the might of our armored and infantry forces and watched in awe the mile after mile of supply trains.

The obstinate burglar took such a terrific pulverizing that when the occupation rulers arrived, he was ready to take any dictate, accept any ultimatum and to make the most of a very bad situation.

On the other hand, when Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur takes his occupation forces into Japan he will be ready to fight.

The Japanese army has not been met in any great numbers by our Pacific forces. At the most, we faced three or four divisions at any one time. We never met them on a 300-mile front, at 50 division strength when we would have been able to give them a thorough military lesson.

Not Destroyed

Therefore, we have not destroyed the Japanese army, neither have we destroyed the people's faith in their army. As late as this morning, an arrogant Japanese commander in Singapore broadcast that "much is feared dignity remains supreme in the Japanese army" and "we are still prepared to crush our foes."

But this commander admitted that he had bowed to the will of the emperor.

The Japanese people have seen our air might and suffered under it. But, forever, they'll tell themselves and posterity that it was a few scientists who discovered an atom bomb which brought about their defeat.

Plenty Of Tires By End Of Year, Says Manufacturer

CHAUTAUQUE, N. Y., Aug. 21. —(INS)—A prediction that tires will be off the ration list by the end of the year was made today by John L. Collier, president of the B. F. Goodrich Co.

Collier said the industry soon would be able to turn out 110 million civilian tires annually, compared with a pre-war capacity of 65 million a year.

Expansion Programs For Many Factories

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Two large Pittsburgh district plants said today expansion programs totaling $16,000,000 will absorb many workers who lost their jobs through reconversion cutbacks.

A Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation spokesman said a $12,000,000 expansion program at its Allegheny works will employ thousands. In addition to this, a new coke oven project, costing $3,000,000, will be ready to operate by October 1. Several hundred workers will be needed to man the ovens, he said.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company disclosed completion of a $500,000 addition to its Cranberry plant and said $700,000 will be spent to increase capacity at its Mt. Vernon, O., window glass plant.

Young Woman Is Not Hiccupping

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Aug. 21. —(INS)—Doctors may ponder and ponder over what stopped her hiccupping all that interested Miss Angelina Lucante is how to go.

For the third successive day today, Miss Lucante of Elizabeth has been free of those body-cracking hiccups which began 15 days ago. The attack halted Saturday after the 26-year-old girl came out of a second hypnotically-induced sleep.

Doctors don't know whether the second started in 1943, lasting 30 days and the first or a dozen other remedies they tried.

This was Miss Lucante's third and shortest stage. Her first came in strokes.

The hiccup is a natural enemy of sleep.

Jitterbugging Reds Interest Americans

By MISS PATRICIA TEAGUE and MISS ARETA KELBLE
(Written Expressly for I. N. S.
News Special Service)"Nice Nothing"

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—If you've never seen a couple of Russians jitterbugging, you are in for quite a sight. We haven't decided if they picked the dance up from the Yanks or whether it is an adaptation from a Russian folk-dance. But either way the dance is complete with kicks, breaks and swing.

This was the most remarkable thing that we saw at the Femina night club. After hearing and reading so much about the place, our curiosity got the better of us.

Overrated

The Femina is an overrated and overcrowded place. The main reason the Americans go there is because it brings back a memory of some place they frequented back in Cincinnati or Denver. There are no alcoholic drinks available, only an odd pinkish punch which seems a cross between unadorned jello and fingernail polish.

S. Sgt. Irwin Lerner and Corp. Freddie Eden, both of New York City, were our escorts that night. Irwin had lived in Berlin a number of years before escaping the Nazis and making his way to the States. On our way home we passed by his former home, which is now only a pile of bricks.

Berlin is fast becoming just another war-torn city of Europe with its recent glamor having flown out in a fleet of C-47's. The conference is over and the Army is settling down to its task of occupying Berlin. The center of activity is now near the famous Brandenburg gate along Alexander Platz. This is the black market.

We stopped the jeep there the other day to watch and immediately a crowd gathered around most of the people just plain curious about American girls. The Russians are all out to buy something and the Germans satchels in hand, are aggressively trying to make a sale.

One of us was wearing a small enameled Second Armored pin. A Russian officer took such a liking to it that he insisted upon trading it for his flashiest medal. He was so insistent that he made us feel it would be an international incident if we refused.

Got the Pin

So the Russian got his way, proudly pinned his huge Red Star medal on us as if we were being decorated for a great deed, then even more proudly did he pin our little medal on himself, and walked off all smiles.

The scarcity of watches among the soldiers is only exceeded by the abundance of cameras. A handsome leather case camera is as much a part of the uniform now as the GI carbine or pistol.

On the outskirts of Berlin there are still great forests where the fashionable Nazis like Goering used to do their hunting. The other morning we accepted the "call of the wild" and at 3:30 a. m. started off in a deep heavily clothe, as the damp Berlin weather counts, and armed with borrowed carbines.

Bagged a Deer

Sgt. Jack Radigan of Trenton, N. J., bagged a deer for us and Pvt. Virgil Deas of Louisville, an assistant mess sergeant, fixed up a "steak dinner" with it.

Novel gifts from the soldiers we have received wherever we've been everything from an antique love-seat to purple silk pajamas liberated and presented during the fight on the Roer.

But the most novel to date came as the answer to a silly remark we made that a girl could be suitably happy only if she had silver fox furs. Lo and behold the day after the remark, we found on the desk of our office a little baby silver fox alive and squealing.

DOROTHY WALLACE EARNS COMMISSION AS WAC OFFICER

FORT DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 21.—Lt. Dorothy Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham Wallace of North Bend, Pa., one of the newly commissioned officers who have just graduated from Officer Candidate school.

She enlisted in the WAC in January, 1944, and later served as weather observer at Asheville-Hendersonville Airport, North Carolina, and at the Army Air Forces Weather Wing, Asheville, N. C.

Lt. Wallace's father served overseas with the cavalry during World War I, and in this war served as adjutant in Third Service Command headquarters, Harrisburg, from May, 1941, until his retirement in May, 1943. The local WAC officer is the niece of Mrs. Robert Armstrong, of New Castle.

Aircraft Industry Wonders Of Future

EDITOR'S NOTE: What does the future have in store for America's aircraft industry? During the war years it rose from 4th in size to the nation's and the world's largest single enterprise. Following is the first of three articles dealing with the industry's miraculous achievements and the problems facing it—INS.

By JOSEPH A. BORS
U.S. Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A sky-high question mark hangs today over the future of America's colossal aviation industry, which is striking like a punctured balloon under military contract cutbacks.

Industry officials and military leaders share the concern over what will happen to American aviation within the next five or ten peacetime years.

Only contracts can supply the answers to the following questions confronting the industry, which is credited with playing the greatest role in winning the war:

Two Questions
1. Will funds be supplied for an adequate program to insure continuation of costly but vital research and development?

2. Will surplus aircraft and equipment be disposed of quickly enough to insure retention of technological gains and to preserve the financial help.

The war ended so abruptly after huge new war appropriations were made that some research and development will continue during the next few months.

The industry itself cannot afford the upkeep of patently obsolete research and development departments.

Even more pressing is the problem of disposing of surplus production, which may mean the difference between normal postwar expansion and financial straggle.

Sale and Scrap
Disposal must include both sale and scrapping of thousands of war planes and tons of equipment to remove them from the market quickly. Only a meager start has been made in that direction.

The nation tried Liberty engines after World War I, and as a result America lagged far behind in the race to develop powerful planes for the second global conflict.

Magnitude of the task ahead can be emphasized best by studying the production record of the industry during the war years, when mountains of dollars were dumped in to get badly needed aircraft.

During 1944 the aviation industry produced 96,369 military airplanes for the United States and her allies. In four and one half years it turned out about 250,000 planes.

Immediately after Japan surrendered the army air forces alone cancelled orders for 31,000 combat and transport planes. That was expected.

Industry officials insist they do not want to be subsidized by the government. But they do want a blueprint of government plans before they spend their own funds for development of combat types for the future.

Industry officials and military leaders share the concern over what will happen to American aviation within the next five or ten peacetime years.

Only contracts can supply the answers to the following questions confronting the industry, which is credited with playing the greatest role in winning the war:

Two Questions
1. Will funds be supplied for an adequate program to insure continuation of costly but vital research and development?

2. Will surplus aircraft and equipment be disposed of quickly enough to insure retention of technological gains and to preserve the financial help.

The war ended so abruptly after huge new war appropriations were made that some research and development will continue during the next few months.

The industry itself cannot afford the upkeep of patently obsolete research and development departments.

Even more pressing is the problem of disposing of surplus production, which may mean the difference between normal postwar expansion and financial straggle.

Sale and Scrap
Disposal must include both sale and scrapping of thousands of war planes and tons of equipment to remove them from the market quickly. Only a meager start has been made in that direction.

The nation tried Liberty engines after World War I, and as a result America lagged far behind in the race to develop powerful planes for the second global conflict.

Magnitude of the task ahead can be emphasized best by studying the production record of the industry during the war years, when mountains of dollars were dumped in to get badly needed aircraft.

During 1944 the aviation industry produced 96,369 military airplanes for the United States and her allies. In four and one half years it turned out about 250,000 planes.

Immediately after Japan surrendered the army air forces alone cancelled orders for 31,000 combat and transport planes. That was expected.

Government Will Assist Returning Vets Secure Jobs

Details of a comprehensive plan designated to provide returning war veterans and displaced Federal workers with the maximum possible opportunity for future service have been sent to Postmaster William R. Hanna by the office of the regional director of the Third-Class Service Commission at Philadelphia.

RADAR

...Spotted Targets Through Darkness, Smoke or Fog

The Bell System—the largest source of Radar for our fighting forces

THIS is not surprising for Radar development and production stems from the same roots that produced and continue to nourish this country's telephone system.

Radar, the instrument which enabled our land, sea and air forces to spot enemy targets through darkness, smoke or fog, was one of the outstanding new fighting instruments of the war.

Two years before Pearl Harbor the Government asked Bell Telephone Laboratories to put its wide experience and knowledge of electronics to work to help perfect Radar as a military instrument. From then on the Laboratories co-operated closely in the Radar program with the National Defense Research Committee, with Army and Navy specialists, and with scientists of Great Britain.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing branch of the Bell System, became the Nation's largest supplier of Radar systems. One type it made was universally used by B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. Another played an important part in aiming the guns on our warships.

If you're waiting for a home telephone, it helps a little to know that Radar is one of the reasons. For years telephone manufacturing plants were devoted to these war needs.

Gasoline Price Drop Is Seen

OPA Announces Cheaper Gasoline For 17 Eastern States By September

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The office of price administration announced the price ceiling on gasoline and fuel oils will shortly be reduced in the District of Columbia and the 17 eastern states.

The reductions will range from six-tenths of a cent to 1.2 cents a gallon for gasoline, 1 cent to 1.5 cents a gallon for kerosene, distillate heating oils and Diesel fuel from 1.5 to 30 cents a barrel for heavy industrial fuel oils.

OPA said that it expects to make the price ceiling reductions at the refinery and wholesale, including tank wagon, levels effective September 1.

Effective In September

The reductions at retail establishments will probably become effective later in September. The exact date for these reductions is not yet definite, OPA said.

A later effective date for the retail reduction is planned to allow a period for the disposition of normal stocks while the special transportation increases were in effect.

The 17 states affected, in addition to the District of Columbia are Connecticut, Delaware, that part of Florida east of the Apalachicola river, Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Wartime Increases

OPA said the reduced amounts represent in general the increases in ceilings granted during the war period to help defray the extra cost of transporting petroleum products to the eastern coast area when normal tanker transportation had to be abandoned.

The increases that were granted in ceilings for this purpose, OPA explained, represents only part of the cost of wartime transportation of petroleum products to the eastern coast. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation paid the balance in compensatory adjustments.

Personal Victory

WHILE THE REST of the world celebrated victory over the Nips, Pfc. James Wilson of Jacksonville, Fla., celebrated a victory of his own. Having lost both legs and hands in a bomber crash which killed all of his companions, Wilson has now learned to use both artificial limbs and hands. He is shown taking his first outdoor walk on the boardwalk at Atlantic City, N. J., where he is a patient at England General hospital. (International)

A horsepower is a lifting power equal to 33,000 pounds raised one foot high per minute. James Watt, the famous inventor, devised this unit of power. It was his belief that the average horse was capable of lifting 33,000 pounds to a height of one foot in one minute, but he over-estimated the horse's strength.

Retired Workers Urged To Apply For S.S. Benefits

Social Security Benefits Not Automatic To Retired Workers Over 65

With the war over many workers age 65 and over will now be retiring. To these workers, Edward J. Singer, manager of the New Castle office of the Social Security board, today pointed out that benefits under the Social Security Act must be applied for. They are not automatic.

The old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act provide for monthly benefits to qualified workers upon retirement and to their wives at age 65 and children under 18. Mr. Singer said that a claim must be filed before benefits are payable. Every month's delay in filing after the worker quits work means a loss of part of his benefit.

Delay Lessens Benefit

Amount of the benefit depends primarily on the worker's "average monthly wage." That "average" is figured by dividing all wages in covered jobs since January 1, 1937, by the number of months that have elapsed between that date and the time the claim is filed. Mr. Singer added that delay in filing may mean additional months by which the total wages must be divided. That means a smaller "average monthly wage" which in turn means a smaller benefit.

May File, Then Work

Filing of a claim does not prevent the worker from returning to work in the future. Mr. Singer explained that benefits are not payable for any month in which the worker earns over $14.99 in employment covered by the Social Security Act.

When the worker returns to work he notifies the Social Security board and no further payments are made until he notifies the Social Security board that he is no longer working.

Go In, Write or Phone

Claims may be filed at the Social Security board office, 306 Neshannock avenue, New Castle. Persons unable to call in person should write or telephone. There is no charge for help in filing your claim.

Take It Easy With Old Car, Old Tires, Warn State Police

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Pennsylvania state policemen were notified today by Commissioner C. M. Welheim to enforce the commonwealth's 50-mile-per-hour speed limit and thus "prevent a rise in postwar traffic accidents."

"While the 35-mile speed limit is no more, it would pay all drivers to adhere to it as closely as possible for some time to come," Welheim said. "New cars and tires must come before a higher speed can be safely ventured."

"There is grave danger of a heavy increase in traffic accidents," he added.

The victory speed limit, proclaimed in the fall of 1942 by Gov. Arthur H. James, was "officially" ended in the records but no proclamation will be issued, a spokesman for Gov. Edward Martin reported.

Firm Voluntarily Raises Wages To Balance Hours Cut

BRISTOL, Pa., Aug. 21.—(INS)—Roum & Haas company, Bristol plastic specialists, today set the pace for industry in southeastern Pennsylvania by granting employees voluntary pay-increases to compensate for a reduced work-week.

The company notified its 2000 workers that there would be no necessity of layoffs under its system of transfers and shortened hours.

"We are sure you will all agree that in order to give maximum employment, the 48-hour week schedule should be discontinued," the company told its employees.

"In order materially to reduce the hardship by the reduced work-week, an increase will be given estimated at 10 per cent in all hourly rates of employees placed on a regular schedule of 40 hours a week."

Mrs. Wainwright Still Waiting For News Confirmation

Last Time She Heard From "Skinny" He Weighed Only 125, Says General's Wife

SKANATELES, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(INS)—Mrs. Jonathan M. Wainwright still awaited official confirmation from Washington today that her husband, Lieut. Gen. Wainwright, has been rescued from a Jap prison camp in Manchuria and is safe and well.

"I have no reason at all," she said, "to doubt the word that has come to me from news sources, but I certainly would like to have something official from Washington."

Her husband, commander of the heroic Corregidor garrison, was rescued by American paratroopers and his arrival in Chungking was reported yesterday.

Mrs. Wainwright showed concern for the general's health.

The last time I heard from "Skinny" in January he weighed 125 pounds," she said. "That is about 35 pounds less than he weighed when Corregidor fell. But he's always been 'Skinny' to everyone who knows him because when he was graduated from West Point in 1906 he only weighed 121 pounds."

Shifting for yourself has always been an American custom. As boy or man, just give an American an even break—a chance to get ahead—and he'll do the rest.

But when government goes into business, in competition with its citizens, the American idea of an even break is destroyed... for government in business takes special privileges that are denied the people.

Consider government power projects, for example. They are not required to pay federal taxes; often get money from the U. S. Treasury at little or no interest; make up losses out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

Conn And Louis Rematch Plans Now In Making

Mike Jacobs Figures On Conn And Louis Bout For June 1946, Announces

CONN IS NOW TOURING EUROPE

By BOB BUTLER

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—The much-discussed return bout between Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and Billy Conn was "on" today as far as Conn's manager, Johnny Ray, was concerned.

"If Joe Louis is not afraid of us, we are not afraid to box," declared Ray in Pittsburgh today. "Conn has no more fear of the champion than he has of a mouse."

Asked if he would win Ray said that Conn, who is now 27, should have won the title bout which he lost by a TKO on June 18, 1941.

Ray insisted Conn out-fought, out-punched and out-boxed the champion from the fifth round until the fatal 13th when Louis was declared the winner.

June 1946 Date

Mike Jacobs said in New York that Louis, who is an Army sergeant, will fight his first postwar battle in the United States. He inferred that he had Conn in mind as Louis' opponent. The fight is tentatively scheduled for June 1946.

"We are ready to fight Louis sooner than June if possible," Ray declared.

"Does one department store tell another its business?" Ray Uncle Sam didn't tell us his," Ray said when asked when Conn would be discharged from the Army. He is a corporal.

Touring Europe

Conn is now touring Germany with the Bob Hope show. In frequent letters to Ray and other friends in Pittsburgh, Conn's hometown, the challenger has expressed an eagerness to get home. He did not have any idea however when he will be released.

An INS dispatch from Washington reported that "name" athletes will get no preference whatever for discharge from the services.

Twice during the interview, Conn's manager referred to the champion's "fear" of Conn.

Each time however he quickly qualified his statement saying:

"Don't get me wrong. Louis is a great fellow, a swell gentleman, one of the greatest fighters of all time and in every way a credit to the fight game."

Former Lightweight Champ

Essaying Comeback Held To Draw By New Yorker

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—(INS)—A new Pennsylvania boxing rule west Sammy Angott, former lightweight champion, a delay in his second comeback attempt today after he fought Gene Burton of New York to a 10-round draw at Forbes Field.

Formerly the rule in the Keystone state was that a referee could decide the contest when the two judges disagreed. The rule now is that a majority of the trio decides.

Ref Favors Angott

Last night, both judges ruled evenly on rounds but one cast for Burton because he thought the New Yorker had won the heavier rounds. The voting of the judges gave Referee Freddy Mastrom no choice but to call the bout a draw since his score sheet gave Angott seven rounds and one even.

Angott, who is now 30, was fighting his first battle in nine months. The former champion weighed 142; Burton 139.

The Western Pennsylvania Golf association and the Pittsburgh War Bond Sports committee, sponsors of the match, announced admission to the match will be by War Bond only. Purchase of a $50 bond will entitle the holder to attend one day's play—morning and afternoon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—There is magic in the name of Feller, a magic that today has the casual baseball fan blinking and shaking his head in wonderment.

For yesterday there came the news that Bob Feller, former strikeout king of the American League, had arrived at a separation center on his way back to the Cleveland Indians.

And pitchers throughout the major leagues suddenly came through with a combined performance that surpassed everything shown in the majors this year.

Newhouse Wins 20th

Hal Newhouse was the big noise in the pitching field. The Tigers are left-handed shut out the Philadelphia Athletics in the first of two games, and by so doing became the first 1945 twister in the big leagues to win twenty games.

The Tigers won the series of 4 to 0 and then went on to sweep the day's proceedings with a 4-1 victory in the nightcap. Les Mueller did the honors in the afterpiece.

Washington administered a double-whitewash to the Cleveland Indians.

Little Marino Pieretti held the Tribe three hits as the Nats rolled up a 7-0 verdict. In the afterpiece it was Alex Carrasquel on the top side of a 5 to 0 decision.

The St. Louis Browns moved over the Indians and into the first division with a 10-6 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

The New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 4 to 1 and retained the 500 level in the standings.

Giants Trim Cubs

The Giants trim the Chicago Cubs 4-1, 9 to 3 beating in a game featured by three homers by the New York operatives.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Boston Braves 2 to 0.

A ninth-inning single by Otis Jimmy Fox gave the Philadelphia Phils their fourth straight victory. Fox hit came with one out and the bases loaded and broke a 3-3 tie with the Cincinnati Reds. Jimmy also slammed a homer during the day's action.

Preacher Roe of the Pirates never had an easier job in his life as he faced the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Dodgers committed no less than seven errors as the Pirates collected a dozen hits for an 11 to 1 victory.

At a meeting of the managers last night at the "Y" it was decided to play the following games:

Tigers-Senators Win Twin Bills, Cubs Are Beaten

No Change In American League Standing, Cubs See Lead Out, Cards Win

PIRATES THUMP BROOKLYN BUMS

By CHARLES EINHORN

International News Service Sports Writers

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—There is magic in the name of Feller, a magic that today has the casual baseball fan blinking and shaking his head in wonderment.

For yesterday there came the news that Bob Feller, former strikeout king of the American League, had arrived at a separation center on his way back to the Cleveland Indians.

And pitchers throughout the major leagues suddenly came through with a combined performance that surpassed everything shown in the majors this year.

Newhouse Wins 20th

Hal Newhouse was the big noise in the pitching field. The Tigers are left-handed shut out the Philadelphia Athletics in the first of two games, and by so doing became the first 1945 twister in the big leagues to win twenty games.

The Tigers won the series of 4 to 0 and then went on to sweep the day's proceedings with a 4-1 victory in the nightcap. Les Mueller did the honors in the afterpiece.

Washington administered a double-whitewash to the Cleveland Indians.

Little Marino Pieretti held the Tribe three hits as the Nats rolled up a 7-0 verdict. In the afterpiece it was Alex Carrasquel on the top side of a 5 to 0 decision.

The St. Louis Browns moved over the Indians and into the first division with a 10-6 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

The New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 4 to 1 and retained the 500 level in the standings.

Giants Trim Cubs

The Giants trim the Chicago Cubs 4-1, 9 to 3 beating in a game featured by three homers by the New York operatives.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Boston Braves 2 to 0.

A ninth-inning single by Otis Jimmy Fox gave the Philadelphia Phils their fourth straight victory. Fox hit came with one out and the bases loaded and broke a 3-3 tie with the Cincinnati Reds. Jimmy also slammed a homer during the day's action.

Preacher Roe of the Pirates never had an easier job in his life as he faced the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Dodgers committed no less than seven errors as the Pirates collected a dozen hits for an 11 to 1 victory.

Arrange Schedule

At a meeting of the managers last night at the "Y" it was decided to play the following games:

Germans Expect Harsh Treatment

Editor's note: What life is like in Germany today, what the Germans are thinking, is told in a series of two articles by Pierre J. HUSS, who for ten years before the war, was central European manager of International News Service with headquarters in Berlin. Following is the first of the two articles, the second of which will be published tomorrow.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—As time goes on in conquered Germany there may be an outcrop of underground troublemakers seeking to stir up unrest. They may contend that the Big Three are crowning another "Versailles diktat" down the throat of central Europe. For the moment, however, the rank and file of Germans are knocking down to Allied control with humdrum obedience.

No Outcry

Although on the surface the Potsdam declaration would seem to call for a German outcry that the country is being stripped and sent to the dogs for generations, the contrary has occurred so far. There has been only a faint murmur of criticism through studied silence in some quarters.

Outspoken German political comment and attitude is laid down along the following line of reason: "The length and breadth of Nazi fury and intolerance which outraged the world has sunk so deeply in the minds of Allied peoples that regardless of what the pros and cons are on the guilt for these crimes shared by the German people, there must be a period of hard atonement in Germany."

"Consequently the worst had to be expected once the Nazi empire cracked up. It was inevitable that the German people as a whole must carry the heaviest atonement burden, because on the one hand the swastika zealots changed colors quickly and tried by every means to lose themselves amidst the broad masses."

"Therefore every German has to be appraised with suspicion until the wedding-out process has been completed."

"Secondly, it must not be forgotten that Allied force of arms alone smashed the Hitler Third Reich, and not a rebellion of the German people."

In Straight Jacket

"The fact that the masses as a whole were in a gestapo straight-jacket is not recognized as a valid excuse by the Allies of the sheep-like submission to the last ditch on the part of some eight million Germans within greater Germany."

"It is painfully apparent that even in the last weeks of war not one German lifted a finger to help in hastening the fall of Hitler."

"Consequently the war was fought out on a military basis, leaving the fate of Germany entirely in Allied hands. It gave the Allies a blank check and if they wished to ruin Germany into 48 provincial sectors or turn the land over to Russia to occupy, they were unreservedly entitled to do so."

"Instead of that, the Big Three finally laid down their decision in Potsdam for a uniform policy of occupational administration. Most important of all, a future Germany was envisaged and the frontiers as outlined after Poland and Russia."

received compensational territories leave a united and compact Germany.

New Lease On Life

"No matter how tough and bitter all else will be, the Big Three has given Germany a new lease on life. On that basis the Germans approve it and by the same token reject any attempts by subversive elements to start the ball rolling against the Potsdam declaration as another Versailles diktat."

I have no doubt that much of the common sense view as expressed by today's German political leaders is spoken with tongue in cheek, although they are entitled to the benefit of the doubt insofar as sincerity of intentions goes. In the first place, there isn't much else they can do, and they know it. They realize by force of circumstances that Germany is in for grim times, and that the chances are slim indeed even in the far future for raking a Fourth Reich from the discredited ruins of the Third Reich. There is a pretty fair idea in German heads this time that the peace treaty to emerge from World War II will have sufficient teeth in it to prevent anyone from lightly tearing out any of its pages or transforming the whole thing into a ridiculed "scrap of paper."

Of Today

(International News Service)

Gen. Charles De Gaulle, en route to Washington today, brings with him determination to better the prestige of France in the community of nations.

No longer the wartime leader of a fighting France, De Gaulle has become the political chief of state, president of the provisional government of a France struggling to come back to the peacetime ways of trade and commerce.

In the past year, the hasty-looking, 6-foot-3 general has been forced to make politics his business. His theme in the tangle of French factions and in the diplomacy between world capitals has been an unrelenting effort to recognize France's pre-war prestige.

The graduate of St. Cyr, the French West Point, the army man who as a colonel went unheard in his own country when he depicted war as a mobile conflict of tanks, has made progress in the game of politics. He won France a zone in the occupation of Germany. He has just won a place for a French officer at the Japanese surrender ceremony.

In Washington, De Gaulle will seek more—and for the disrupted economy of his country, an understanding of the French position in the Near and Far East.

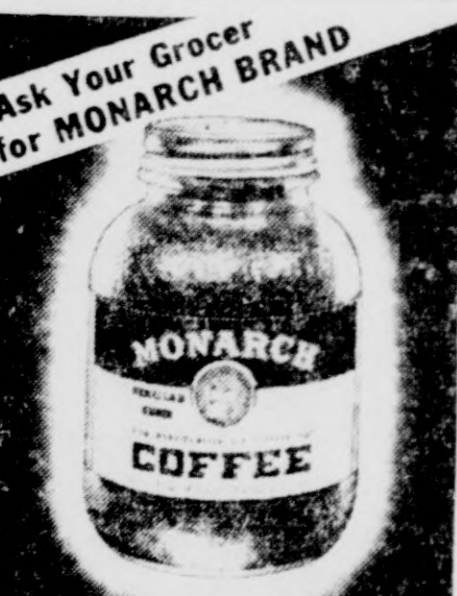

In France they say that De Gaulle the soldier is learning the politician's art. They say he has learned to smile.

DeGaulle On Way To Washington

Provisional President Of France Will Arrive In Capital On Wednesday Afternoon

PARIS, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Gen. Charles De Gaulle, provisional president of France, was en route to the United States today. He left Orly field by plane at midnight.

De Gaulle and a party of 12 are traveling in a specially-converted York bomber, which is piloted by a French army officer. Plans call for the plane to land in the Azores, then proceed to Newfoundland where the group will spend the night before continuing on to Washington. Expectations are that the French will reach the American capital at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

Endocrine helps the face become more youthful looking

Many thousands of ENDOCREME users in the last 8 years have found to their own enthusiastic satisfaction that ENDOCREME helps to regain a more youthful texture and beauty of the skin of face and throat. ENDOCREME with most women brings results hitherto thought impossible. It actually helps to improve the skin itself, not just its superficial appearance. This is because ENDOCREME with its ACTIVOL... a scientific replacement for woman's natural skin-vitalizing substance... is absorbed by the skin to help restore normal growth of cells and tissues. This assists the skin to become smoother, fresher, softer, actually more alluringly youthful again. How better can any woman invest her cosmetic dollars? You, too, should try ENDOCREME. Many report great improvement in just 30 days.

No Connection Between AFL And New Labor Party

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor (AFL) asserted today that the "American Labor Party," a recently-formed political group in the commonwealth, was "not in any manner identified with the labor movement" in the state.

President James L. McDermott said a "careful investigation" revealed that none of the names attached to the organization's petition were identified with labor.

He emphasized the new organization was not authorized to act in behalf of the American Federation of Labor in Pennsylvania.

Training Class For State Police Begins October 1

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm said today that the first postwar state police training class was expected to get underway at Hershey October 1.

He was unable to estimate how many prospective troopers would be enrolled in the six-month course that began that application would be accepted until October 1.

Of the 304 troopers who entered the armed forces, only six have returned to the state. Wilhelm said. The authorized strength of the force has been 1,000 at 1939 but currently numbers only 1024 men.
